Dec. 25, 1943.

Dear Mommie and Dad:

We had a grand Christmas, were allowed to do just about as we pleased all day. This morning we didn't muster until 9:30 as compared with the usual 5:45. For breakfast we had coffee, long do-nuts, candy, mixed nuts, milk by the crates for those who wanted it, oranges, tangerines, apples, etc. It was a lot of fun. Then there were all kinds of programs (I'm sending you one). We had dinner at 3 p.m. It was really nice, (menu inclosed with programs) with real tablecloth and napkins, table decorations and candles. We get to fix our own tonight, (Who said this was a man's Navy?) No fooling it's plenty rough, but it's swell! I like it more every day. Next week a new bunch will come in, and we'll be the seniors, and can sing the cute song to them that the past seniors have been singing to us.

I must close for now, as we are going to a show.

Oceans of Love,
—ALLIE.

Dec. 30, 1943.—Well we got our uniforms today and go into uniform tomorrow. Sat. we send our civies home, C.O.D. by request.

My uniforms look swell, but my hair is cut real short, can just see it under my hat.

How is my sweet black Spaniel, and the little blond pekinese, and are you and Daddy well?

I'm worn out tonight and it's so noisy I can hardly write, but I'm still crazy about it. Please write soon and often.

Oceans of love
—ALLIE.

P.S. One of the girls in our room just got word her husband was killed in a plane crash, but she's taking it swell.

Jan. 1, 1944—We really started the new year right. Our first day in uniform, our first regimental review, first captain's inspection and first of the new year.

Jan. 4.—Was surely tickled that you and Dad called New Years eve, was so glad to hear your voices, helped a lot. Had another typhoid shot today, always makes me dizzy. I start with the dentist tomorrow.

Am enclosing a clipping titled "Over the Bounding Main to the Metropolitan," telling of the 41 Waves from 17 states who opened the matinee performance at the Metropolitan Opera yesterday with the singing of the national anthem instead of the usual opera chorus. They attended the performance of La Traviata as guests of Geo. A. Sloan, president of the Met. Opera Assoc. The girls were chosen from my own 22nd regiment on basis of musical training and excellence of voice. Don't they look nice in the picture?

Jan. 14, '44.—It's been a couple of days since I've had a letter from you. I missed writing one day as I've been studying for tests, had the last one today and I'm glad I did study as I passed easily.

Just got my first liberty card, feels swell to be able to get out. Just one more week of being a Boot, I'll be so glad to graduate.

Dad, we drill every day in the famous Armory of World War I. I've been seeing pictures I wish you could see, war pictures, taken recently in China, Germany and of our fleet, but I'll have to wait until its all over to tell you about them.

Oh yes I got weighed yesterday, and with my top-coat on I weigh 130 lbs. Weighed 111 lbs. when I came in.

Jan. 17.—Tomorrow we march up 5th ave. on a War Bond drive, I always wanted to march up 5th ave. so now's my chance, will surely be some walk.

Some of the girls have their orders, but as yet none in our Co.

Jan. 18—Didn't get this letter mailed yesterday so will tell you more about the parade. They took news reels of it, so perhaps you'll get to see it. I'm in the squad in back of our Wave band, fourth row, second from left.

Jan. 19.—Just back from a grand liberty. Four of us went together, left here at noon, caught the subway, and arrived at the Biltmore hotel at about 1 o'clock, went upstairs to the Elizabeth Arden powder room, donated by her especially for service women. It's one of the most beautiful places I've ever seen, an enormous room, done in two shades of rose and gold. You are served free punch and cake and plenty of free Philip Morris cigarettes, and then—the best part, "Elizabeth Arden's Powder Bar," everything furnished, and beautiful red roses all over. So we got all pretty and started out. Walked all the way up 5th ave., went in St. Patrick's cathedral, the largest and most beautiful place, almost unbelievable. After that we went shopping, mostly window, went through Saks, Lord & Taylor's and several others. Had lunch at Schaffner's, then down the other side of 5th ave. and into Radio City. Will tell you all about it when I get home, just can't put it into words.

Tomorrow we're going to the top of Empire State bldg. to look over to the statue of Liberty, and then to church at the famous "Little Church Around the Corner." Oh! I'm really enjoying all this, it's what I've always wanted.

Jan. 20.—Will soon know when and if, I can come home for a while, I miss you all so much. Boot camp was very strict but I've enjoyed every minute of it, blisters and all. Have worn out four pair of hose and two pair of shoes need repairs, no wonder they give us such heavy ones. When I come home I want to get into a pair of lounging pajamas and set all the alarm clocks going, then just sit down and laugh at them. Now don't get the idea I don't like the Navy, because I love it, more every day.

Jan. 28.—I called you last night mostly to let you know that I hadn't received my orders yet, and intended to tell you that I'm S.2/c now, but was so happy to hear your voice, forgot to tell you. Also please note change of address.

Jan. 30.—Just got back from another liberty, only went as far as Kingbridge, had a lovely steak dinner. It's 8:30 now and I'm all set for bed. Will work till noon tomorrow then have my first over night liberty.

Oh. yes, I forgot to tell you, one of my buddies has an uncle who is a Capt. on the police force, and he has invited us to see N.Y. from a police patrol car. Now I know we'll see the town.

Jan. 31.—Had a wonderful week end. The police captain came after us and drove us all over N. Y. and Central Park. Went to a couple of swank night clubs and saw some swell entertainment. Met a nice army captain who joined our party. Everything was perfect.

Really worked today, but after a grand week end it wasn't too hard to take.

Got the photo of Porky, also the snaps which were grand. How are my puppies? It's time for taps so I must close. I read your letter and one from Porky by flashlight the other night when taps came too soon. The time goes so quickly, by the time I do my laundry and put my hair up, it's almost time for taps.

San Francisco, Calif.
February 15, 1944.

Well here I am in San Francisco, left N. Y. Wednesday morning, had four hour stop in Chicago and from there on through Nebraska we hit a blizzard which slowed us up a lot. Denver was swell, looks just the same. Stopped at the Brown Palace and had trout for dinner. Went through Feather river canyon early in the morning and a tunnel had caved in which delayed us for 4 or 5 hours, right in the prettiest part of the canyon, just as the sun was coming over the mountains. There was a number of sailors and soldiers on the train and one of them played the accordion, while we all sat around a big log fire which the workmen had built, and sang all of our songs while waiting. I've never been with a bunch of kids that could have so much good clean fun, surely seems swell.

We have nice barracks here, and swell chow, and our own private swimming pool.

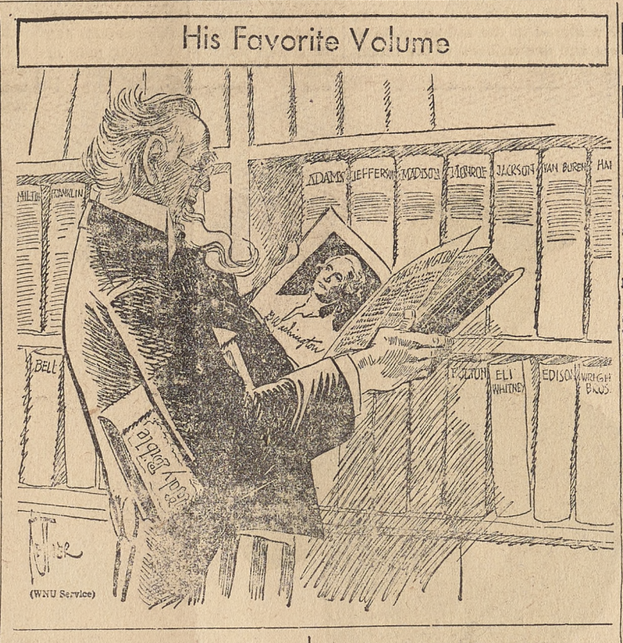

Tell my Spaniel to be a good puppie and I'll hurry home.

Oceans of love,
—ALLIE.

Chamber of Commerce Wants Advice and Leaders for Teen-Agers

Mothers and fathers of Ocean Beach! Are you willing to help our local police and Chamber of Commerce take care of our "junior problem?" Yes, "junior problem," not "junior delinquency." Lt. Weston of our local police calls it "parent delinquency." At the regular meeting of the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce on Monday night, Feb. 14, Lt. Weston gave a forceful and purposeful talk on what is erroneously called junior delinquency. A growing boy or girl imitates and follows the ways of his parents—if the parent disobeys and ridicules the law and the officers who enforce the law, what else can be expected of the juvenile. The community needs more places for the "teen-agers" to gather for recreation and sports. They need a leader: One who will let them make their own plans, but guide them. Several communities were mentioned, where this plan was being carried out to a very great success, due to the cooperation of the parents and leaders in the communities. This is an issue of great interest to every parent whether their children are now of teen age or will be soon. The police are very much overworked, but are doing what they can to help the children. "Keep them off the street: give them the right place to go where they can have events of interest to them," says Lt. Weston.

After Lt. Weston's talk, the Chamber of Commerce prepared to lay the ground work to combat this problem. The Davis building was suggested as a meeting place for the juniors. The president of the chamber, Lloyd Greeson, asked that all who had suggestions, please come forward with them. Come to the Chamber of Commerce meetings and do your part to set up a plan to help our youngsters—they are willing, but they need guidance and cooperation.

A $25 war bond was presented in person to Miss Sally Ann Provost, age 5 weeks, as she was the first baby in Ocean Beach to be born in 1944. Miss Provost was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Raymond Provost, of 4677 Saratoga.

After a brief business meeting, at which it was requested that no more paper be dumped at the American Legion paper depot, as it creates a fire hazard, the meeting adjourned.

Harden Announces His Candidacy For Seat in Congress

Declaring that the New Deal has failed the nation in a time of crisis, and that government must be given back to the people, Clarence Harden, former superior court judge, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as congressman from this district. He is the first of several expected to make the race. His statement follows:

"We are facing the most critical period in our history. We have a war to win, and thereafter we must establish and maintain a workable domestic economy.

"A vital question concerning every individual is whether this country is going to return to constitutional law and a recognition of the fact that the people are competent to govern themeslves in local affairs, or whether we are going to drift further and further from constitutional principle and eventually report to Washington on all things great and small.

"I say congress must put a stop to the centralization of power in the national government, to government by executive order and the rulings of bureaus. The people must regain their lost sovereignity.

"I want to return business to the people where it belongs. That is the principle that made this country great.

"The new deal has been tried, and found sadly wanting. In a time of grave crisis, it has utterly failed the nation. Instead of strong leadership, around which the people could rally, it has given us bungling, inefficiency, confusion and discord.

Harden, a native of Nebraska, came here in 1909. He was admitted to the practice of law in 1913, and in 1924 served as president of the bar association. In 1930 he was elected superior court judge, and re-elected in 1936. He resigned to enter private practice. While on the bench he frequently was called for temporary service on the fourth district court of appeal.

Dr. Sand Maps Progress of War

Dr. Alfred Sand was program chairman as well as speaker at Kiwanis club Tuesday evening, showing with large descriptive maps the progress of World War II. Dr. Sand told of the ruling men in Germany. Their declaration of war upon their neighbors and their success up to the time they reached Stalingrad in Russia and El Alemain in North Africa. The success of British and American troops at the latter place he looked upon as the turning point of the war; also stating that it was only by the grace of God that England had been saved from being conquered by the enemy. Hitler's mistake in attacking Russia instead of pressing his advantage in the British isles was named as the gravest error made by the German leader.

Considerable study was shown in delivery of the talk on fortress Europe by Dr. Sand who said the Germans had killed two million Jews, two million Poles, and an untold number of Russians. Slightly less than a dozen prominent Nazis were named for their part in the world war and the part they play in their nation.

The speaker felt sure history would repeat itself and that the American army would bring sure defeat to Germany in this conflict as it had done in 1918.

Guests of Dr. Sand for the evening were Capt. Kelso, Cecil Stout and W. Forrest Wheson.

Don Cochrane, member of the club who has been seriously ill was given a hearty welcome with best wishes for his recovery.

Pfc. Wm. J. Harper of Fort Rosecrans was the club's military guest for the evening.

The Red Cross In Ocean Beach

By ONA E. PITCOCK

The cookies this week went to a ward where the boys are very sick. The boxes were decorated with red hearts and inside each box was placed a Valentine and a red frosted heart shaped cookie. Also we sent in our gift box which contained 24 nice gifts of games, books, soap, etc. Donated this week was a pair of crutches and a cane. I am sure if you people of the beach realized how badly these things I ask for are needed you would comb your houses and garages. We need bed and table lamps and wood-working tools. We need stereoscopes badly. You have all looked through them many a time and marveled at the wonderful sights you saw. I recovered one my grandfather used to own. These are used to strengthen the muscles of the eyes of our boys who have been wounded. The wood-working tools are for the rehabiliation hospital. They have a nice lathe but need tools. We have many small camps in the county and they need furniture, lamps, etc. Remember these boys went away perfect specimens of manhood but in protecting us and keeping the war from our shores many are cripples in many ways. You must realize that all our boys who are fighting so gallantly now will never be the men that they might have been. They have seen too much, been through too much, nerves and bodies are shocked. They will not be the husbands, brothers or sisters they were before they went away. You will have to be patient with them when they return. Only God knows what they go through.

At the "Thrift Shop" we are going to have an apron and pot-holder sale. Have you pieces left from dresses you have made for yourself or your children that you can make an apron out of or a piece of unbleached muslin? We have very pretty pieces that would make nice trimming. Pot-holders can be made any size.

Ocean Beach Red Cross center wishes to thank the ladies of Mission Beach who have sent us such nice articles and cookies through the kindness of Mrs. Mae Heidbrink. It is greatly appreciated and I am sure you will receive a letter of thanks from the Red Cross headquarters. Please keep on with your good work which is so badly needed and which helps to keep up the morale of our boys.

Don't forget to attend the home nursing class at Ocean Beach elementary school on Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 until 11:30 a.m. and from 7 until 9 p.m. Mrs. Margaret Hilton will be instructor. All should take this course.

Camp and hospital committee of Red Cross is appealing for suitcases for the use of our fighting men. Many have returned from overseas and have furloughs coming but nothing in which to carry clothes and toilet articles. Anyone having suitcases or traveling bags that are serviceable and would contribute them may bring them to the Ocean Beach Red Cross center. On Thursday, Feb. 17, a tea will be held at the Azure Vista housing unit, opening the new community building. Red Cross is being featured. Mrs. Davis is to be Red Cross chairman for Azure Vista.

"The country Lincoln died for cannot fail."

Shoe Hospital Sold New Owners

Ocean Beach's "Shoe Hospital" was sold again this week, two San Diego business men now being the owners. Clyde D. Powell, public accountant, and Jack Fleig are the new owners. Walter Gallion is managing the busy shoe repair business which has had more work for many months than the men could turn out.

The Shoe Hospital in olden days was operated by John Kidwell next door east of the post-office. Kidwell sold to Bly E. Wood who also continued for several years at that location and then moved to a modern store-room at 4931 Newport ave. where he built a very fine business. Mr. Wood sold a few months ago to Wayne Knotts, who also had shops in San Diego.

Voters Not Eligible Must Register by April 5

Mrs. Juanita Halamude Wednesday opened a desk in Ocean Beach branch Bank of America where she will register voters until registration books close on April 5th. Mrs. Halamuda will be on duty, she reports, every day during banking hours, that is 10 to 3, and 10 to 12 noon Saturday.

Voters who have moved since they last voted, or voters who did not cast a ballot in the elestion two years ago, will have to register before they can vote.

Veterans Should Not Allow Insurance to Lapse

More than 800,000 veterans of the present war have already been discharged from service and more are being discharged at the rate of 1,000 daily.

In some instances government insurance is being allowed to lapse by these veterans and family and friends should advise these men to keep up their insurance. It is no doubt the cheapest safeguard they will ever have and should treasure the value of it.

Burglars Obtain $250 From Glenn's Cafe Safe

The safe of Glenn's drive-in cafe at 5606 W. Pt. Loma blvd. was cracked early last Saturday by thieves who stole $250 from the safe, $40 in nickels and dimes from a juke box and other vending devices, and a leather jacket from a closet.

Police said the thieves jimmied a rear door to gain entry, hammered the dial from the safe and used a punch to knock the pin from the safe lock.

U.S.O. Dance Tonight For Service Men

The U.S.O. bulletin for San Diego for this week features the Ocean Beach U.S.O. formal Valentine dance to be held Saturday evening, Feb. 19th. Service men on leave are asked to come and help furnish the fun.

The U.S.O. club now opens at 5 p.m. each week day, excepting Saturdays and Sundays when it opens at 2 p.m. Pool from 5 to 8 p.m. and informal games from 8 to 11 every night.

A "learn to dance" session is held each Monday night, beginning at 7 p.m. It is pleasing to note that new junior hostesses are coming in all the time and it is hoped more will come to help entertain the boys away from home.

Please do not forget to send in cookies, donuts and cakes whenever possible. It is a great help in carrying this work along.

Mashed Potatoes

In general, potatoes undesirable when cooked by steaming, boiling, or baking were acceptable when mashed; that may partially account for the popular appeal of mashed potatoes.

Burned Butter

In some parts of Europe peasants burned "bewitched" butter at certain crossroads in an attempt to catch guilty witches who supposedly stole butter and milk from them.

Early Nail Making

Upper New York state had been represented in the chronicle of American nailmaking even in the year 1787 when Albany was listed as a manufacturing site.

Coal Producer

The largest coal producer in Latin America, Chile has reserves estimated at somewhat over three billion tons. Production has been around two million tons a year.

Chicken Fat

Chicken fat that has been made 100 per cent fat by boiling it gently to remove the water, may be used in place of butter in cream sauces, cake, cookies, and bread.

Cooking Meat

One hundred pounds of meat roasted at 500 degrees loses approximately 44 pounds; at 400 it loses 22 pounds; but at 300 only 12 pounds.

Good Qualities

Owing to superior penetrating and clinging qualities deriving from their relatively rough surfaces, the hand-wrought nail did not readily give way to its machine-cut successor.

Wire Nail

Believed to have been a French invention of the 1830s, the wire nail did not make its appearance in America until a decade later, and then only as an imported product.

Mild Plains

As of old, cattle and sheep are still wintered in the milder plain of Rome and driven back to the mountains in summer.

War Epidemics

Epidemic disease has invariably accompanied war. In the Spanish-American war it was typhoid fever; at the end of World War I, it was typhus fever in Eastern Europe and influenza in the U. S.

Good Soil

Good soil often can be found in fence corners or other places where weeds and other vegetation decaying yearly have become incorporated in the soil.

Savory Herbs

Savory herbs such as mint, watercress, parsley, chives, sweet marjoram, basil, and rose geranium can be grown indoors in flower pots or window boxes during the winter.

Geological Data Listed

Estimates of the earth's area place fertile regions at 33 million square miles, steppes at 19 million square miles and deserts at 5 million square miles.

Winter Care

Before putting oil into machinery when storing for the winter, be sure to drain out all water pockets. Some users prefer a dormant spray oil for protection during storage.

Aids Soft Metals

In general, antimony does for the soft metals, lead and tin, much the same service that tungsten, vanadium, and the other toughening elements do for steel.

Keep his America

AMERICAN!..

..until Johnny comes marching home!

IN THIS...as in every other emergency ...the people of America have rallied behind the government to win the war. Manpower, money, production lines are all being devoted to the one great task.

This is true democracy at work ... the same American system of free enterprise, of free business and free labor, that has helped create the greatest nation in the world.

And after the war...what? New problems, yes. But none that our democracy cannot solve. There have been new problems to solve after every crisis, for three centuries of American life. The American system of true democracy has successfully met them all. It can...and will... do it again.

Keep America American!

Look Americans! Since the beginning of time, the only road to prosperity has been P-R-O-D-U-C-T-I-O-N and exchange of goods and services at a profit—the American system of labor and business.

From it you have earned personal benefits—your home towns have enjoyed increasing advantages—and your nation has become the richest on earth.

THE AMERICAN SYSTEM HAS CREATED THESE TANGIBLE THINGS FOR YOU:

—the highest standard of living in the world;

—the accumulation of personal savings and worldly possessions—your schools, your highways, your buildings—your life insurance, your home, your automobile;

—money to pay the cost of government, local, state and national, including the payment of governmental debt;

And with it, you have the right to think, to speak and to worship as you choose—rights forbidden to millions not living under the free American system.

LESSON LEARNED IN LAST WAR?

WE AMERICANS are a magnanimous people. We will fight for what we believe in but when the enemy cries "enough," we take him by the hand, put him on his feet and assist him to a speedy recovery. We did just that following World War I. We were largely responsible for the acceptance of an armistice. We fought for lenient terms for the defeated enemy in opposition to Clemenceau and Lloyd George. We loaned the enemy money—which he did not repay—with which to aid his quick recovery. We did not understand the German character.

I know a German gardener, now a loyal American citizen, and he knows the German character. I well remember my first conversation with him some two years ago. World War II was just opening so far as we were concerned. Our conversation turned to that subject.

"It was a mistake for the First World war to have stopped before the Allied armies marched into Berlin," he said, "before the German people had fully realized what war on the home soil meant to them. Had they had that lesson, a Hitler would not have been possible and this war would not have happened."

That German-American gardener understands, better than I do, the German people. He knows the lesson they must have before the idea of world dominance is removed from their minds.

This time let us hope it will be different. May we have "unconditional surrender" in all that implies and as amplified by the Teheran conference. May there be no bargaining as to terms. May the German people know, as they have made others know, what war on the home soil means, actual land war as well as air bombing. Germany, it seems, will learn only the hard way, just as the French, under Napoleon, had to learn the hard way. We hope for no softening of the terms but should we, in a new burst of soft-minded generosity, urge such a thing, the Russians will complete the job that must be done if Germany is to learn that war does not pay, that might does not make right.

CHISELERS AND WAR EFFORT

IN THE SLUSH AND SNOW and mud of Italy, in the slimy tropical jungles of the islands of the South Pacific, in the air over Germany, Burma and China, men are fighting and dying that we and they may remain free. They are doing their part of the job on the battlefronts with no thought of personal advantage.

It is the rare exception for any of us on the home front not to have someone dear to us—a son, grandson, husband, brother, nephew or friends—numbered among those on the battlefronts. One and all those dear ones offered everything, including life, that we and they may continue to enjoy the blessings of liberty.

Under such conditions it is not easy to imagine any of those on the home front using the war as a means to personal gain. Who of the producers of food, planes, tanks, ships and guns are so base as to make of the war needs a means of making extra profits, a few paltry dollars? There are some such chiselers. Who of the workers are so base as to use the peril of the nation as a club with which to enforce demands for increased wages? That there are some such chiselers was again demonstrated when several thousand coal miners refused to dig badly needed coal on Armistice day because they would not be paid time and one-half.

All such chiselers, whether they be the producers of war essentials or workers in the mines, factories and on the farms, are not loyal citizens. They are traitors, not alone to their government, but to those dear to them serving on the battlefronts.

THE ARMISTICE AGREEMENT that marked the close of World War I provided, among other things, that Germany surrender her fleet and that she pay for the destruction she had caused. She turned over the fleet to England, claiming for it on her reparations account more than it had cost to construct and the claim was allowed. But German crews scuttled all the ships in an English harbor and England had to pay for removing the hulks as an obstruction to navigation. What sharp German tricks will she attempt this time and will the Allies fall for them as they did before?

BACK IN GRANDMA'S DAY

colds often called for medicated mutton suet as a "home remedy" to comfort muscle aches, coughing. Today, it's for Penetro, modern medication in a base containing mutton suet. Penetro's double action relieves these miseries—(1) vaporizes to soothe stuffy nose (2) acts like warming plaster right where rubbed on. 25c. Double supply, 35c. Get Penetro.

"I WAS CONSTIPATED FOR MANY YEARS!

Now I'm 'Regular' Every Morning!"

Constipated? Then here's an unsolicited letter you'll want to read: "I'd been troubled with common constipation for many years. Was taking laxatives and pills all the time, and feeling very weak and run down. 3 months ago, I began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. Now, I have a regular, natural movement every morning, which helps me feel my best!" Mr. Samuel D. Blank, 292 Kings Highway, Brooklyn, New York.

What is this seeming magic of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN? Scientists say it's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation — namely, lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements, which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out." It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find lasting relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. George Washington Could Have Warned Us

On this wartime anniversary of George Washington's birth, the shocking story of our men on Bataan and Corregidor is fresh in our minds.

Americans will always wonder why, with half the world openly arming for conquest, this Nation failed to be ready when the bestial enemy struck; why we were utterly unprepared to sustain with food, gas, planes and reserve troops those boys standing in the jaws of death, fulfilling their duty.

George Washington could have told General MacArthur something about that. In his famous letter to the Continental Congress, written two days before Christmas from the desolate camp at Valley Forge, General Washington emphatically advised the gentlemen at Philadelphia that because of lack of action on the part of a Congressional commission, the Army had no food nor supplies and "must inevitably starve, dissolve or disperse in order to obtain subsistence in the best manner they can."

Without food, which Congress had promised, without winter apparel, which Congress had vowed to secure; without soap or shoes or shirts or blankets the Army was wholly incapacitated for duty at a time when a decisive blow should have been struck at the invading British. Nearly 3,000, the celebrated letter reads, were "barefoot or otherwise naked."

"It is easier and less distressing to draw remonstrances in a comfortable room by a good fireside than to occupy a cold, bleak hill and sleep under frost and snow without clothes or blankets," thundered the Washington communique carried by horseback to the Capital.

The military situation in Valley Forge and Bataan were somewhat analogous, except for the weather and the difference in fighting a civilized and an uncivilized foe.

Washington's writings could have warned us that no enemy, not even the brutalized Jap, is so deadly as apathy where there should be readiness when all readable signs point to the need for it. With lessons like that in our history, this Nation should never again forget.

Less Mystery

It appears there will be less mystery regarding President Roosevelt's political plans this year than there was in 1940.

Vice President Henry Wallace, in his recent visit to California, declared, "There is no doubt in my mind that the President will run, even though the President may feel uncertain now."

Already a Roosevelt nominating ticket for the Democratic national convention has been filed in California. The President will be unopposed on the Democratic ticket and no opposition is expected to Governor Warren on the Republican slate. This means that as far as the State primary election in May is concerned, the presidential nominating will be merely routine in both parties.

Alaska--49th State

Will Alaska become our 49th state?

Many people expect its development and growth to be so marked after the war that it will be granted that status. Actually, the war "made" Alaska. Prior to the Jap attack on Dutch Harbor and their invasion of Attu and Kiska, the American people were only vaguely aware of the land "up north."

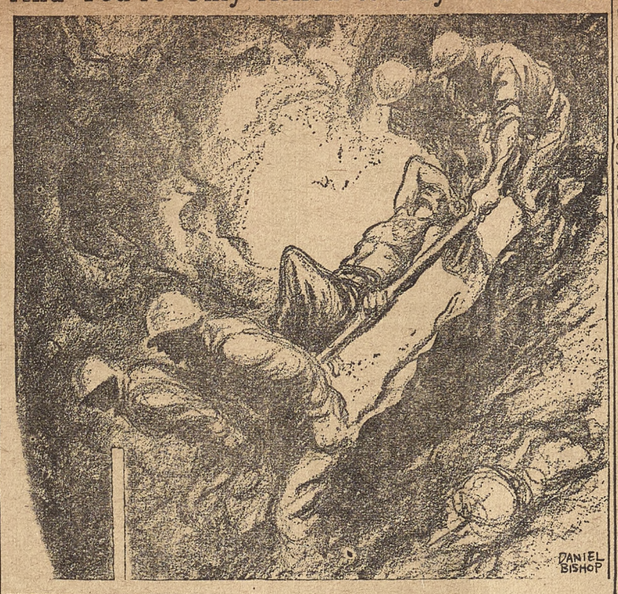

Then suddenly we became Alaska conscious—conscious of the great strategical value of our northern possession. Army engineers performed a modern miracle in building the Alaska highway. Had there been no emergency it would have been years before it was constructed.

If the threat to Alaska had occurred during the last war, we would have been much less able to cope with it. Even if we had been able to build the Alaska highway then as quickly as we did a year ago, trucks in those days could not carry as much as they can now, nor were they as fast and dependable. Nor did we have as many available.

In 1917 we had 300,000 trucks. In 1941 we had nearly five million—and this is one of the biggest reasons why our transportation system has functioned so well in this war despite the unprecedented load thrust upon it.

Today there are many thousands of America's young men stationed in Alaska. After victory, they may lead the "second gold rush" and build a bigger and better Alaska—and make it the 49th state.

And You're Only Asked to Buy War Bonds

Civilian Defense---

DOROTHEA F. MILLER
B-3066—District 7

Admiral Blakely has requested all Block Plan women to send in the number of hours spent in Civilian Defense. Classes, lectures, films and meetings are to be included in the count. As this request has been made several times, we urge you to attend to this matter at once. A simple form would be—"I, have spent longer hours in Civilian Defense up to Aug. 1, 1943," sign your name, and mail to your district leader.

The used clean material has been received, we hope that block and sector leaders will call for it immediately, and get to work on slippers, quilts and lap-robes, for our box for Ft. Rosecrans. We wish to thank Mrs. Roy Orrick, Mrs. Stoddard and Mrs. Jas. Leadbeater for sorting and delivering this material to our district.

You are still eligible to join the Red Cross home nursing classes that started Wednesday in room 8, of the Ocean Beach school. The morning class is from 9:30-11:30, and the evening class from 7-9. Mrs. Margaret Helton, R.N. is the instructor.

Mrs. Norman A. Haskell has organized a Red Cross home nursing class to start Wednesday, Feb. 23, in the Azure Vista housing project auditorium. Mrs. June Rule, R.N., will instruct.

Part of the statement of the Civilian Defense policy adopted Jan. 13th are as follows:

Sec. 6. The full development of the war services branch of each state and local council has become increasingly important to deal with community wartime problems and to mobilize the home front for selling war bonds, organizing share-the-ride programs, producing and conserving food, and countless other wartime tasks. This is the offensive phase of civilian participation in the war effort which provides an important job for every civilian to do to win the war. The sacrifices of our army and navy compel nothing less than the maximum effort of every civilian. Each defense council must furnish the highest possible leadership to the end that the Citizens Service Corps shall be completely manned, with every citizen actually doing a service which will win the war.

—LLOYD M. SMITH,
Secretary, Ninth Regional Civilian Defense Board.

February 7, 1944.

Mrs. David A. Fraser
Women's Division Block Plan
Room 238 Spreckels Bldg.
San Diego 1, California

Dear Mrs. Fraser:

Referring to the proposed activities of your Block Plan Organization in procuring registrations from voters, I desire to quote a part of a resolution passed by the Defense Council on Sept. 10, 1943, which reads as follows:

"Groups or services of the civilian defense organization shall restrict their activities to the duties prescribed in their manual and such other specific duties in civilian defense as have been prescribed by competent authority."

Securing registration of voters, while a desirable civic function, does not fall within the limits of Civilian War Services; and this activity should not be undertaken as a mission for any group in the San Diego Civilian Defense Organization. However, there is no objection to any person acting as an individual and on her own initiative undertaking this work.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) C. A. BLAKELY,
Executive Secretary, San Diego Defense Council, and Director of Civilian War Service.

24 Hour Care For Youngsters 2 to 12

Twenty-four hour care for youngsters from 2 to 12 years is a reality in San Diego now. Three child care centers, Linda Vista No. 1, Jefferson elementary school, 3770 Utah st., and Junior League center, 737 17th st., are now in operation 24 hours a day, including Sunday.

At these three centers youngsters may be left for any part of the 2 hours. Extra equipment including mattresses, sleeping blankets, heating units have been added to make this round-the-clock care possible.

In addition to the three operating 24 hours a new combination nursery and extended day care center has been opened at Fremont school, 2375 Congress st. under the direction of Mrs. Jessie Rosenwald.

Children at the Los Altos child center at Pacific Beach are now in their newly completed Federal quarters at 1201 Turquoise st.

Children of any working mother are eligible for care. Fees range from 40c for all day Saturday care to $3.50 a week. Reduced rates are offered where there are more than one child in the family attending.

Schools Receive Nearly $4 Million Tax Money

The school districts of San Diego county levied $4,754,953 in property taxes for 1943-44 and received $3,780,768 in state apportionments from the state treasury, as well as other items of revenue from Federal and state government sources, California Taxpayers' association stated, making public its preliminary survey of county-wide school district revenues. Taxes levied for the school districts include debt service demands as well as current school expenditures, the Taxpayers' association stated.

Over the state as a whole, school district tax levies total $104,262,937 for this fiscal year and state apportionments to the elementary, high school, and junior college districts total $78,914,721. In addition, school districts receive state and federal aid for various purposes, including vocational education and war training classes, as well as from federal forest reserve funds.

"School budgets for 1944-45 will soon be in process," the association pointed out. "School officials of every district in California should hold expenditures of their particular districts to a minimum, so that local property taxes for the schools for 1944-45 may be kept as low as possible."

Cub Den No. 2 Gather Lots of Dimes

Ocean Beach can be well proud of the fine enthusiasm and American spirit of the boys of Cub Scout Den No. 2 of troop 328 for the effort that the newly formed Den put forth last week in response to the March of Dimes. These eight boys: Ray Ramage, Peter Hopkins, George Dethier, Lawrence Randall, Arthur Hayward, Richard Roshon, and Jack Dyer collected the sum of $33.70 which will be forwarded to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Do you Know?

1. What to avoid above everything else to insure the long life of your electric iron?
2. How to protect your ironing cord from wearing out?

Do you know the answers? If you do, then you know how to make sure your electric iron will last until Victory and the day when new irons will be sold again. You know, too, that you do not want to go back to the days of heating sad irons over hot stoves and the slow, heavy work that ironing used to be. To make sure then, for the duration that you will have light, fast electric ironing, a special booklet on the care of your iron has been prepared for you: "War-Timely Guide to the Use, Care and Repair of Modern Home Appliances"

Answers:

1. "More irons are put out of commission by dropping than by any other cause." (See page 25, "War-Timely Guide to the Use, Care and Repair of Modern Home Appliances".)
2. Number two cause of most iron breakdowns comes from damaged cords. "Avoid letting the cord touch the hot iron or rub on the edges of the ironing board. The cord should never be wrapped around the handle while the iron is still hot." (See page 26, "War-Timely Guide to the Use, Care and Repair of Modern Home Appliances".)

A Good American THEN and NOW

George Washington stands as an example of a good American. Wealth and ease were his, yet he willingly gave up these and endured the hardships of the Revolutionary War in order that his fellow countrymen could enjoy the blessings of freedom.

What an example he has passed down to those of us who are today enjoying the benefits of his sacrifice. Now when our national security is again threatened, men and women in all branches of our military service, and many others on the home front, have caught the spark of that same spirit which imbued the Father of our Country to guide our young nation through those early troublesome times to victory.

Yes . . . men and women gave their lives in the past because they believed in the things America stood for, and many others are following in their footsteps today.

Yet . . . there are some to whom this war means absolutely nothing, except a personal inconvenience that is making commodities hard to get. Some of them are driving out of their way to obtain black market gas while a P-38 runs out of gas over the Mediterranean. Content they are to let the other fellow buy the War Bonds necessary to win this war . . . glad to forget about the little white crosses in North Africa and Italy and in the Pacific that are paying for their chance to be live and happy Americans.

Thank heaven, few of these selfish individuals live in this community. The same spirit possessed by George Washington motivates our people to do their full share towards winning this war. Not only are they heartily backing every war effort, but they are supporting every community enterprise and endeavor, in order to make our home town a better and friendlier place for our boys and girls to come back to.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Two-Way Red Army Offensive Traps German Divisions Southeast of Kiev; 'Bitterest Battle' Wages Near Cassino; Furloughs Likely for Pacific Veterans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

RUSSIA:
'Molotov's Cocktail'

Big international news of the month was Russia's grant of independence in foreign affairs and defense preparations to 16 republics making up the soviet government.

Vycheslav Molotov

"Molotov's latest cocktail" was the way London's diplomatic circles described the move, which, to all practical purposes would still leave all 16 of the republics under Moscow's control through the Communist party, but at the same time would qualify each one to representation at the peace table.

Announced by Foreign Commissar Vycheslav Molotov, the plan embraced the territories of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, of White Russia in old Poland, and of Karelo-Finland, all of which would be constituted as republics after their annexation by Russia, as a fulfillment of the Atlantic charter's guarantee of self-government for all small nations.

Drive Continues

Driving on the heels of retreating German troops, the Reds crossed into Estonia on the Baltic battlefront, while farther to the south, other Russ forces continued their hammering along the prewar Polish border.

By smashing toward the Baltic at one end of the 250-mile northern front, and pressing their attacks along the prewar Polish border at the other, the Reds threatened a breakthrough that would trap the whole German army in this sector.

Stiffest German resistance was being met near the prewar Polish border, although the Nazis were fighting a strong rear-guard action in the Baltic. As a result of the Baltic drive, the Reds cleared the Nazis from below Leningrad, gaining control of the extensive network of railroads in the vicinity.

"Attrition warfare"—that is, the wearing out of the enemy—continued in the Ukraine, where the Russians went back to the offensive after German counterattacks 80 miles from the Rumanian border.

FURLOUGH:
For Pacific Vets

If the facilities and battle conditions allow, an increasing number of veterans with two years or more service in the Pacific area will be granted furloughs, Com. Gen. Millard F. Harmon declared.

Already a program of replacing vets with fresh troops has been initiated, General Harmon said, but on a limited scale. Availability of shipping and need for troops for the increasing tempo of the Pacific warfare will determine the extent of the furlough program, General Harmon explained.

"Anyone in a responsible position in the army, from General Marshall down, appreciates the desirability of rotating men in the combat zones," General Harmon said. "But they also appreciate the need for winning the war, and you cannot allow rotation of personnel to interfere unduly with that accomplishment."

PACIFIC:
Won't Fight

Again the boastful Japanese fleet refused to come out and fight, and following the heaviest naval bombardment in history which left shore defenses in smoking tatters, U. S. forces overran the Marshall islands in mid-Pacific.

One of the enemy's last outer defensive rims of their main holdings in the Philippine area, the Marshalls, were virtually surrendered by the enemy, without the bitter, last-ditch fight expected. When marines swarmed ashore after a murderous barrage of U. S. naval guns, they met only scattered pillbox opposition, the enemy's own big artillery pieces having been smashed.

Invasion of the Marshalls gave the U. S. a springboard for the next step in the march to Tokyo, now 2,000 miles off, while reports indicated that the Japs were massing planes all through the Philippine and homeland area to meet the push of the greatest naval armada in history, when that day comes.

ITALY:
Bitterest Fighting

Bitterest battle of the bitter Italian campaign was being fought around the Nazis' mountain stronghold of Cassino, with valiant U. S. doughboys working their way into the town behind the rumbling roar of their tanks, while German suicide squads sniped from battered buildings now in rubble.

Forty miles to the north, the enemy rushed in reinforcements to counter the Fifth army operating from its beachhead below Rome, with parachutists, antiaircraft gunners, tankmen and reconnaissance units formed into regular units to fight off the U. S. and British troops moving on the Germans' supply roads under the heavy fire.

Although Cassino itself lay heaped in ruins, the enemy clung stubbornly to dominating heights around the town, and dug firmly into a strong web of concrete machine-gun and mortar pits on the level ground. As doughboys picked their way through the defensive maze, they closed on the main highway leading northward to Rome, over which the enemy was supplying his troops.

SOLDIER VOTING:
Red-Hot Issue

Joining with the almost solid Republican bloc, southern representatives in the nation's Capitol held their ground for state control of soldier voting in opposition to the administration's plan for federal supervision of elections for the offices of President, senator and congressman by means of a blank ballot on which servicemen would write in either the names of their choices or just mark the party they favored.

A compromise between the senate and house loomed, with the senate favoring a bill which would allow use of the federal ballot for soldiers whose states failed to provide for absentee voting by July 1, and the house lined up for a measure directing the distribution of applications for ballots among servicemen and prompt provision of such ballots by states if the application is accepted

SUPREME COURT:
Changeable Opinions

Litigants and lower courts are being left without a basis for settling legal disputes as a result of the Supreme court's tendency to disregard its previous decisions, Justices Roberts and Frankfurter declared.

Justice Roberts

The two justices expressed their opinion following the Supreme court's award of compensation to a seaman for injuries sustained as a result of the use of defective equipment by the employer, when better facilities were available. The court's action reversed its previous rulings in similar cases.

Said Justices Roberts and Frankfurter: "The evil resulting from overruling earlier considered decisions must be evident . . . Defendants will not know whether to litigate or settle, for they will have no assurance that a declared rule will be followed . . . Respect for tribunals must fall when the bar and public come to understand that nothing that has been said in prior adjudication has any force in a current controversy."

WAR SPENDING:
On Rise

During the first half of the 1944 fiscal year starting last July, U. S. government expenditures totaled 52½ billion dollars, compared with 41½ billion dollars for the same period in 1943, and the increased spending rate was maintained during January.

More than 7½ billion dollars was spent last month, in comparison with about 6½ billion dollars for January, 1943, with the army accounting for 118 million dollars of the increase and the navy 808 million dollars.

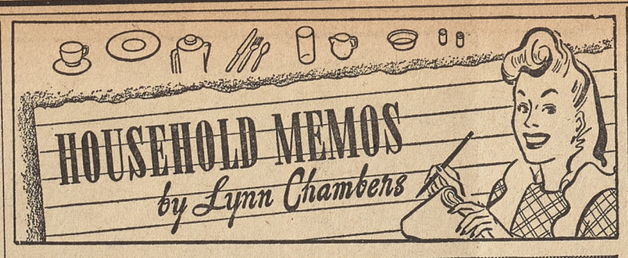

Because of the current pay-as-you-go tax deductions from weekly wage envelopes, treasury receipts for January were above last year, thus bringing in-go and out-go into better balance. Bond sales also were up more than 450 million dollars over January, 1943.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

GARTERS: Hope for synthetic rubber for garters, girdles and other garments faded with the announcement that the rubber director has forbidden the use of neoprene except for a few critical civilian items. Plans to make shoe cement, elastic yarns and fabrics had to be set aside. New military demands made the order necessary. the director said.

LITTLE STORES: Sales of independent retailers were 13 per cent higher in 1943 than in the previous year. These figures do not include department stores, which had an increase of 17 per cent in the period.

INVASION: Railroad shops in Britain are hard at work making special cars and locomotives for use on continental railroads for the invasion of western Europe.

A Little Sugar, but a Lot of Sweetness
(See Recipes Below)

Short on Sugar

Requests continue to pour in for sugar-saving recipes. This leads me to believe that there are many who want home-baked goodies in quantity greater than their sugar supply will allow. That means they want recipes that are short on sugar but long on sweetness.

Most baked goodies taste best when only part of the sugar is replaced by other sweetening agents. Only in plain muffins, bread and rolls is an exception made to this rule. Richer doughs have only one-half to three-fourths of their sugar replaced by corn syrups or honey.

It's best to use only tested recipes for your sugar-savers. You will find the proportion of liquid has been reduced—and if you are trying to change over a recipe you might forget this very important step.

Foundation Sweet Dough.
(Makes 2 coffee cakes or 3½ dozen sweet rolls)

2 cakes yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
¼ cup butter or substitute
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup light corn syrup or honey
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
5 cups sifted enriched flour (about)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add butter, sugar, syrup and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and beat well. Add softened yeast. Beat eggs and add. Mix thoroughly. Add the remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in a greased bowl, cover, let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Shape into tea rings, rolls or coffee cake. Place on greased baking sheets or in greased pans. Cover and let rise again until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes for coffee cakes, 15 to 20 minutes for rolls.

Honey Orange Rolls.

1 recipe Foundation Sweet Dough
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
¼ cup honey

When dough is light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll into a rectangular sheet ¼ inch thick and about 9 inches wide. Spread with honey and sprinkle with orange rind. Roll in jelly-roll fashion, sealing edges. Cut into 1-inch squares. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes.

Lynn Says

The Score Card: You can save pennies and points if you watch the markets closely and plan your menus accordingly. Right now you can use more eggs, pork cuts, citrus fruit, and winter vegetables such as turnips, broccoli, green beans and spinach to perk up your menus.

Be sure to turn in those used fats. Your butcher will pay you for them in both points and pennies.

Use fresh vegetables and fruits whenever possible and save your canned foods for quick or emergency meals.

February is the birthday month of enriched bread and flour. It was estimated that before the war the per capita consumption of the flour was 6½ ounces daily, but it probably is more now because bread and flours are carrying much of the load of other foods such as meat.

Caramel Rolls.

1 recipe Foundation Sweet Dough
¼ cup melted butter or substitute
1 cup dark corn syrup or honey

Into each muffin cup, put ½ teaspoon butter and 1 teaspoon syrup or honey.

When dough is light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll into rectangle, ¼ inch thick and about 9 inches wide. Brush lightly with melted butter. Roll jelly-roll fashion, sealing edges. Cut into 1-inch pieces and place cut side down in muffin tins. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes. Let stand 1 minute before turning out.

Applesauce can go into muffins too! It's as delicious as the cake which has made it famous:

Applesauce Muffins.
(Makes 2½ dozen 2-inch muffins)

½ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
¾ cup light corn syrup
2 eggs
¾ cup sweetened applesauce
2 cups enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream together shortening and sugar. Add syrup and beat well. Beat eggs and add. Add applesauce. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt and add to creamed mixture. Stir only until flour is moistened. Add nuts. Fill greased muffin tins about ⅔ full and bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Give yourself health as well as appetite appeal in these cup-cakes made with iron-rich molasses:

Gingerbread Cup Cakes.
(Makes 18 cup cakes)

½ cup melted shortening
1¼ cups pure dark molasses
1 egg, beaten
2½ cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup hot water

Combine shortening and molasses and add egg. Stir until well blended. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the hot water. Turn into greased muffin pans and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) about 25 minutes.

Here's an unusual dessert with that well-liked apple-cinnamon flavor:

Apple Cinnamon Snow.

1 package lemon flavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons red cinnamon candy drops
1 cup boiling water
½ cup cold water
1 cup applesauce
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Dissolve gelatin, sugar, salt and cinnamon drops in boiling water. Add cold water and applesauce. Cool, then chill to consistency of thick syrup. Add egg whites and beat until mixture is light in color, thick and holds a small peak. Pour into sherbet glasses. Chill until firm. Garnish with a few extra cinnamon candies.

Youth Group Dances At Wallace Hall

A dance is to be held at Wallace hall at the Trinity Episcopal church in Ocean Beach on Friday, Feb. 18 from 8 to 12 p.m. Refreshments and entertainment.

This dance, if successful, will mark the beginning of a series to be held similar to those of the Collegiate club in North Park.

The dances will be held monthly. Students wishing to attend the dances may come either in couples or stag, and door prizes, donated by merchants, will be given away at each dance.

It was decided to call the new club "The Diggers Club" (for minors only).

For some time now, there has been need of a place for high school students to go on week ends. If this dance is successful, it will be the answer to a major problem in wartime San Diego.

Because it is a step in combating juvenile delinfuency, the support of Ocean Beach civic leaders and organizations has been secured.

Reverend Phillip Harris, minister of the Trinity Episcopal church, and Mrs. Mary Maull, dean of girls, will act as advisers. Committee chairmen preparing for the dance are as follows: entertainment, Dick Odom and Penny Mishler; food, Mary Gillman; decorations, Bill Hamlin; publicity, Betty Stevenson; music, Kennie O'Neal and Ellen Jean Marshall; door, Jim Webber; finance, Bill Rick; chaperons, Amelia Bruce; clean-up, Jim Ripka; and tickets, Merlyn Broiles.

Ocean Beach Cub Scouts Tour Ryan Aircraft Plant

On Ryan employees day, Sunday, Feb. 13, the Cubs of Pack 328 were guests of their cubmaster, Sgt. of Investigation Albert Smith, on a tour through the plant. The boys saw demonstrations of welding, riveting and machinery in motion, displays of plane parts and a special display of captured Jap equipment.

Out on the field they were given a close-up view of a Grumman Hellcat, a B-24 Liberator, a Douglas A-20, a Douglas C-54, and a Ryan PT-22. But what seemed to make the biggest hit with the boys was "all the doughnuts and orange juice you want" at the end of the trip.

Sgt. Smith was on duty at the plant all day, but was given an assignment at the front gate so that he could welcome each Den as it arrived, accompanied by Den mothers, Den dads and Den chiefs. Permission for the boys to visit the plant was obtained through the cooperation of Lt. R. O. Dietzer, Buaer resident representative and Bill Wagner, director of public relations, both of Ryan Aeronautical Co.

Ocean Beach School Children Go Valentining

The children of the kindergarten at Ocean Beach school celebrated Valentine's day this past week. Each child made a Valentine for his father which they mailed at the Ocean Beach postoffice. While at the postoffice they saw where war stamps were sold and each one bought a two cent postage stamp for the Valentine they mailed.

On Monday, the mothers of the kindergarten children came to school for an informal Valentine party. The children sang four Valentine songs and then had a Valentine box. The mothers were presented with a Valentine made by their own child.

Each mother helped by furnishing some cookies for the occasion. The following mothers were able to attend: Mesdames Farrell, Whistler jr., Hirzy, Dillon, E. E. Miller, Brem, Collins, J. Miller, Geiner, Seder, Smith, Sommermeyer, Arney, Strunk, Hancock, Bailey, Myers, Haglund, Kaness, Pollock, Herbst, Rand, Brady, Purvis, O'Brien, Floyd, Sibbet, Stockham, Wilson, Hynes, Redburn, Frederick, Johnson, O'Mara, Roshon, Jepson, Ambrose, Hill, Grobecker, Dolan, Crouch, Bane, Brame, Burdette, Schoelcraft, Crosby, Trushinski, Fink, Frichtel, Aldridge, Galvan, Lape, Lesko, Taylor, Simcox and Davis.

District Official Visits Navy Mothers Meeting

Pacific Sunset Cliffs Navy Mothers Club 151, had as their guest Mrs. Ernest, district vice commander and national welfare chairman, the meeting was turned over to her by Commander Echo Howard. Mrs. Ernest installed the new chaplain, Eileen Stone, and first vice commander, Ruby Dale, and also initiated a new member, Mrs. Florence Hasha.

Mrs. Ernest talked on the much needed help here, for our Navy hospital. She gave the club many suggestions and ideas, one of which takes the form of a weiner roast for some of the boys convalescing here, it will be held in the patio at Grace Cottrell, some time soon.

Mrs. Ernest told of the great number of service men given beds and a warm breakfast at Escondido Navy Mothers hostess house, conducted by Mrs. Sallfield, commander, a former member of Club 151. She stated that there was even a "dog house" and a great need for wool blankets.

Our club greatly appreciates the help which the women of the Pacific Beach Red Cross gave to us.

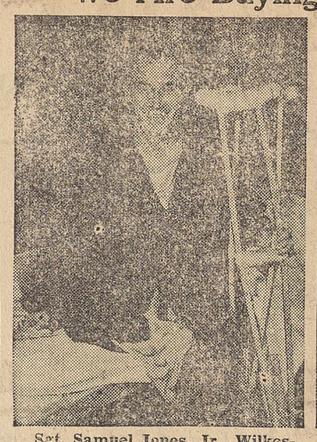

Delegates to the convention, to be held in Dallas, Tex., this year, from March 28 to 31, were voted on. Commander Echo Howard was elected and Mrs. Grace Cottrell, as alternate.

Mrs. Cottrell gave a very short talk, her subject was "Are You a Worker or a Slacker for the Navy Mother Club," then she read a list of workers and happy to say, nearly all the mothers names appeared on her list.

Meetings are held each second and fourth Tuesday of the month, at 1 o'clock at the Log Cabin in Ocean Beach. All mothers with sons in the Navy, Naval Reserves, Coast Guard and Marines are eligible for membership. To contact the club phone Commander Howard, H-8-3930.

MR. PUBLIC: Here's Your Chance to Enter the FIGHT!

Railroaders with their THINKING CAPS on

Here we tell you about some good ideas thought up by the people of our railroad to help Southern Pacific carry its greatest traffic load in history. Such ideas contribute directly to Victory, because the railroad is the war industry all other war industries depend on!

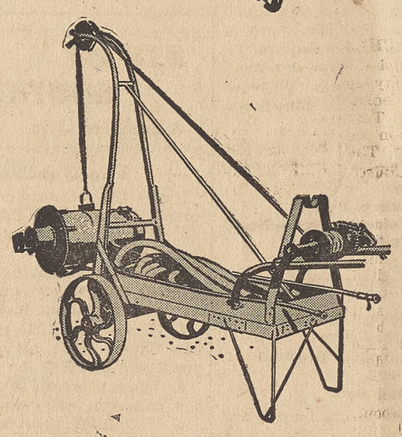

Only a few of the ideas received in recent months are presented here. And some of the devices shown can be fully appreciated only by railroaders. But these ideas have a common denominator everybody will understand: All represent better ways to run a railroad!

Back in the 1860's our railroad itself was a new idea. The first Southern Pacific tracks were built largely into virgin, sparsely settled regions where great cities later grew.

And through the years the S.P. "family" has steadily pioneered such new ideas in railroading as low coach fares; moderately priced meal service in dining cars; and store-door pickup and delivery for less than carload freight. We operate more air-conditioned cars than any railroad west of the Mississippi. Even today, in wartime, our hard-pressed streamliners are still the nation's most beautiful trains.

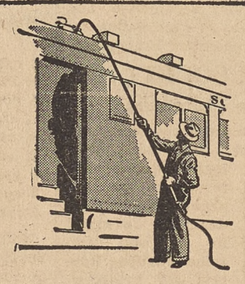

You can be sure that S.P. men and women in the shops, yards, offices, stores and on the trains will continue their constant search for improved methods of railroading.

In this spirit of enterprise we find stimulation and encouragement for the future. Then, as now, good railroad transportation will be needed . . . and we know that railroaders with their thinking caps on will do their part to provide it. S.P. is planning for peacetime progress NOW!

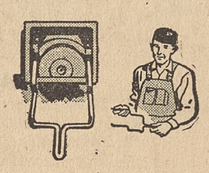

THESE FOUR MEN worked out a horizontal airjack which saves delay to flat cars and manpower in blocking of flat cars into rigid units for loading with long piling. S.P. District Car Service Agent J. E. Whalley of Eugene (third from left) conceived the idea. Car Foreman W. H. McAllister (left) built first working model. W. E. Jackson drew blueprints for another at Eugene, where Master Car Repairer W. B. Medill (right) produced a second working model. Device improves on manually operated track jacks used for same purpose

Watering of passenger cars has been simplified by specially-shaped extension pipe suggested by General Car Foreman C. H. D. Hansen of S.P.'s Mission Road Coach Yard. Method eliminates ladder and need to climb up on top of car to fill water tank

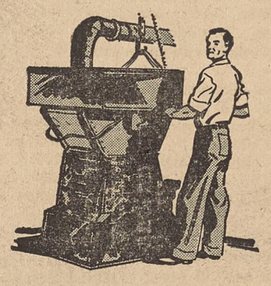

Two hours time daily is saved by this device developed by S.P. Machinist Dow Nichols of Bakersfield. His idea involves a centering attachment for driving box boring mill. Machinists see this as a valuable contribution to good workmanship

To extract journal bearings more easily and minimize danger of accidents, E. P. Morgan, S.P. Electric Welder of the Los Angeles Car Department, worked out this ingenious and specialized tool

Ideas for improved production of brake shoes which saves 156,000 pounds yearly of critical metal formerly scrapped was suggested by Charles Walls, General Foreman of S.P. Blacksmiths at the Sacramento Shops

Increased reclamation of war-vital zinc from used batteries, now S.P.'s only source of zinc, is made possible by idea of Wayne Ramsey, Reclamation and Welding Foreman at Sacramento General Stores. By Ramsey's method, adapting the hammermill, 400 pounds of zinc are produced daily against 100 pounds by former method. Hammermill rips open the zinc covering and breaks up carbon. Zinc pieces and crushed carbon are run through tumbler where carbon falls through perforations while zinc remains behind

Greater accuracy, with saving of time and effort, is made possible by jigs developed by S.P. Machinist Earl Eckenberg at Los Angeles Shops. Jigs center alternator and pump motor heads for boring and fitting bushings

Issuing train tickets to the public is speeded by this stockroom holder for ticket forms devised by Bob Steinbach, S.P. Ticket Clerk. Tickets hang from spindles, in logical order, permitting quick identification and handling

To keep passengers posted as dining car seats become available, reducing wartime waiting-in-line, Conductor E. M. Benson suggested announcements over loudspeakers on S.P. Daylights. Our Conductors often contribute ideas

Troop 50 Boy Scouts Win District Award

The annual court of honor of the Boy Scouts of America, North Shore district, was held on Friday, Feb. 11, at the auditorium of the Pacific Beach elementary school. Troops attended from La Jolla, Pacific Beach, Mission Beach, Ocean Beach and Point Loma. Major Offer, advancement chairman, presided. Numerous stunts were presented in contest for the North Shore district banner trophy. This trophy was won by troop 50, Scoutmaster Robert Whistler jr. sponsored by the Sacred Heart church. The winning troop exhibited a number of camp fire plays, which were shown on the platform of the auditorium. As the theme was the "Out" in scouting the effort was of a highly practical nature.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Behold, God is mighty, and despiseth not any: he is mighty in strength and wisdom." This declaration from Job is the Golden Text in the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Mind" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

A Bible citation from Luke relates that a centurion sent elders to Jesus "beseeching him that he would come and heal his servant," who "was sick, and ready to die." And when Jesus "was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof: . . . but say in a word, and my servant shall be healed." Jesus "turned him about, and said unto the people that followed him, . . . I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel. And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the servant whole that had been sick."

"Mind's government of the body must supersede the so-called laws of matter," writes Mary Baker Eddy in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." And she adds, "Obedience to material law prevents full obedience to spiritual law,—the law which overcomes material conditions and puts matter under the feet of Mind."

Brilliant Baritone At Methodist Church Ash Wednesday

The Point Loma Methodist church will hold a special service Wednesday, Feb. 23rd at 7:30, to commemorate Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent. Jerry Sullivan, brilliant baritone soloist with the First Congregational church, will sing selected and appropriate Lenten songs. The church choir will sing by special request "Come, Ye Blessed." Rev. James F. Roberts, pastor will speak on the theme "The Meaning of Lent." All the community is cordially invited to attend.

Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in Soul, in matter instead of in Spirit.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Go Forward

THERE is always a right way out of every difficulty. Though a human problem may appear complicated. even alarming, there is no reason for dismay if one is willing to rely wholeheartedly on God and allow the ever-operative law of eternal Mind to guide him. When material planning yields to divine direction, harmony is certain to result. Unhappy conditions disappear, often instantly, sometimes gradually, and permanent healing of human discord is attained. Such is the sure result of unflinching faith in God, omnipotent, omnipresent, omniscient Principle.

A stirring example of what may be accomplished through staunch faith in God's power to save is the story of the children of Israel. Here is a narrative that has never become trite or threadbare. When the wanderers, led by Moses, saw the Red Sea straight ahead, and knew that Pharaoh's army was close upon their heels, they became panic-stricken, and small wonder. But right then and there God made His presence known to them through the mighty command to Moses, "Speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward." We all know what happened. They went forward, the Red Sea opened before their unbelieving eyes, and they passed through to the opposite shore.

Such divine deliverance is in constant evidence today among the children of men. It matters not whether a human problem be a trivial affair or of world importance, man's divine help is always at hand. . . .

In short, many are beginning to perceive that man is not, and never has been, the unhappy victim of some malevolent, nonunderstandable influence. They are beginning to see that the real man, spiritual and perfect, is truly God's well-loved son.

Today millions are turning steadfastly to God for direction and help. They refuse to be dismayed by material calamities, because they know that eternal Principle, though unseen, is ceaselessly at the helm. Truth is certain to uncover error's futility, and the unmasking will continue until harmony is recognized and attained. On page 542 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy writes: "Let Truth uncover and destroy error in God's own way, and let human justice pattern the divine. Sin will receive its full penalty, both for what it is and for what it does. Justice marks the sinner, and teaches mortals not to remove the waymarks of God. To envy's own hell, justice consigns the lie which, to advance itself, breaks God's commandments."

God's unerring government, through which an undefeatable purpose runs, is adequate for the adjustment of personal difficulties and world affairs. Even a world enmeshed in the toils of carnal warfare is not beyond or outside the divine compassion. We must pray constantly. Doubt, fear, or skepticism achieves nothing. Strong trust in God is our greatest weapon, not only for ourselves, but for our loved ones, wherever they may be. The tender message of the Christ comes to everyone today in the words of Jesus to his disciples (John 14:27): "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

Early Explorer

Leif Ericson was born in Iceland in the Tenth century. A son of Erik the Red, who was a son of one of the original settlers of Iceland and the discoverer of Greenland, Ericson spent the summer of 999 in Norway studying at the court of King Olaf Tryggvason where he was converted to Christianity. On commission of the king, he returned home to Greenland and the following summer to preach the Christian faith. En route he was blown off his course and sighted land in a new region. Because of the grapevines he saw he called the new country Vinland. From descriptions of the journey and observations recorded, historians believe this country to have been New England or Nova Scotia, and as a result Leif Ericson is considered by many to have been the real discoverer of America. A few years later expeditions left Greenland to explore the new land and make settlements, but they were forced to leave after three years because of attacks from what are believed now to have been Indians.

Row Fertilizing

On large plots where the rows are widely spaced, it is more economical to apply plant food to the row, rather than broadcast it over the entire garden area. Exhaustive placement tests indicate that the very best results are achieved when the plant food is placed in furrows two inches to each side of the seed row. The plant food furrows should be deep enough to allow the placing of the plant food 1 to 1½ inches below the planted seed or seed piece. Plant food should be applied at the rate of one quart (two pounds) per 50 feet of row . . . that is, one pint (one pound) on each side of the 50 feet of row. Under this method of row fertilizing, the seed is planted first and covered while the string row marker is in place. The plant food furrows are then made, the plant food distributed in them, and covered.

Pink Sauerkraut

One of the difficulties frequently encountered is "pink" sauerkraut. Certain types of yeast that grow on or near the surface of the cabbage in the container sometimes make the kraut pink. This is usually caused by improper packing of the cabbage, too high a salt content or by uneven distribution of the salt.

Frighten Sharks

Natives who have had considerable experience with sharks do not recommend that the amateur swimmer should fight them off with knives. If they attack, it is best to make as much noise as possible to frighten them away. Noise under water can be made by clapping together stones, metal objects, or sticks, or even by thrashing the legs. But unless they attack, it is best to remain quiet so as not to attract them. Also, clothing should cover as much of the body as possible, for they are attracted by white flesh.

The most important thing for a swimmer to remember about the dreaded jellyfish, or Portuguese Man-of-War, is that its sting is not death-dealing, but exceedingly painful, and one may experience a feeling of impending suffocation. This knowledge is of invaluable importance in keeping the swimmer from losing his head and being overcome by fear.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of the Flying Fortress known as "The Swoose," which escaped from Clark Field, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Old 99, another Fortress, is struck down before it can get off the ground, killing eight of her crew. Kurtz and his men are getting ready for a reconnaissance trip over Formosa when they heard the whistling of bombs. They ran for the nearest foxholes and stayed in them until the first Jap formation flew away. Then they get what antiaircraft is available, in action. The field is littered with the charred skeletons of Flying Fortresses, including Old 99. They plan to salvage the wrecks.

CHAPTER IV

"A lot of damned fools were waving flashlights around unnecessarily, and I thought, 'Suppose a Jap Recco plane catches a glint of this.' Pretty soon I heard a plane and raised up to listen, but when it came in plainer I recognized the deep four-motor grind of one of our own Fortresses—it was undoubtedly one of the dozen which had been left down on Del Monte Field, now coming in from the long trip from Mindanao to spend the rest of the night on Clark and in the morning pound some of those scores of Jap transports which were said to be swarming off Luzon.

"And I hoped to God that single remaining runway strip had been cleared so they could get down, and they wouldn't have to circle and go back home. Just then a nervous antiaircraft battery opened up on the Fortress, and then they all did.

"And what about Margo, halfway around the world? Had she heard anything? And how long would it be before I could tell her that Eddie Oliver and I were all that were left of Old 99 she had waved goodby to at Albuquerque six weeks ago? Or would I ever tell her?

"I had promised the boys this was just the opening game and that there were a lot more Saturdays coming, so what did it matter if this first one belonged to the Japs? In the end we would win. Only now I began wondering about that sprawling line and where it pointed to. Maybe it trailed off into nothing, and at the end would be only chaos and defeat. I didn't know, and when I realized it would do no good to guess or hope, then I went to sleep.

"Over at the field, six of the Mindanao gang had come up from Del Monte, coming in two and three at a time and landing on the two-thousand-foot strip of runway which was all that remained of Clark Field. Then they had been pulled off into dispersed areas while they were gassed up and loaded with bombs. The pilots of this half-dozen were now assembled while the Colonel gave them their targets, and towering over the group was Colin Kelly—I could see his curly black head, his shoulders back as usual. I knew the boys would be headed out into plenty of trouble, and I couldn't help walking over to listen while the Colonel briefed Colin. I felt a little brotherly about him because he'd been one of my co-pilots back on March Field. Now he was headed out on his first battle mission.

"Colin was photographing every word in his mind. He looked tired from flying all night, had had little if any sleep—his ordinarily neat uniform was smeared with grease as though he'd been working on his engines himself—and we had time only to exchange waves as he headed for his plane to load his bombs and I climbed up into the tower.

"The thing was practically a sieve from bullets which had ripped through the corrugated iron during yesterday's strafing. A couple of privates had been up there for twenty-four hours without food or relief—I guess everybody must have forgotten them, but they'd done a swell job. Looking at all those jagged holes in the sheet-iron walls, I didn't see how they'd come out alive, but they explained it—told me if I got strafed, I could lie down along one sheet-iron wall behind a pile of lead battery cases used to run the field lights.

"My job of course was to handle the tower lights—give the boys the signal when they could come in to land on the field—but the Colonel wasn't taking any chances losing any more on the ground. He said when any Fortresses came back, to keep them in the air, circling the field, until he changed the order.

"Presently there comes scooting in one of those little low P-26's that were used by the Filipino Air Force—an old stick-and-wire job with non-retractable landing gear which is practically a museum piece. I give him the green light, because I can see he is already so full of bullet holes I don't see how he can stay in the air—and out jumps this little Filipino fighter pilot. All he wants is more gas and more bullets for his little .30-caliber gun, and he's back up in the air for more of it. Those kids did a magnificent job for their islands with that decrepit junk.

"Everybody was jumpy—we didn't know what minute the Japs would come back. I watched one truck that was wandering around the field with a gang filling up bomb craters. Suddenly the air-raid bell sounded, and those guys dived out of the truck in every direction to run for foxholes, leaving the driverless truck to keep wandering right on over onto its nose in a shell crater. Those phony alerts were a constant strain, even though each one was called off fifteen minutes later. I've since wondered if maybe fifth-columnists weren't turning in most of them.

"That morning our fighters (yesterday's raid had left maybe fifteen out of the two dozen which had been on Iba Field) were doing a magnificent job. And learning, too—this was their first day of real fighting, and there is just a hell of a lot about war that you can't find in any book and that they can't teach you in maneuvers. Buzz Wagner, the best fighter of them all, would have told you that.

"Buzz, with a single P-40, had done a job that ordinarily would be assigned to an entire squadron. (A fighter squadron is 25 planes.) Buzz had been sent out in the early morning full of ammunition for his six .50-caliber guns and with 30-pound fragmentation bombs under his wings, so he was ready to tackle almost anything he saw.

"He was out over the sea north of Luzon, sitting on the overcast, when suddenly a terrific ack-ack barrage came snorting up at him through the cloud layer. There was so much of it Buzz figured it must have been at least a Jap battleship shoveling it up at him, so he was pulling off to the south—still staying above the cloud layer—when he spotted four Jap fighters high above him. He was tempted to dump his bombs—which would give him more speed and maneuverability—and go up there to tangle with them, but those bombs, according to his briefing, were destined for some planes the Japs had just put ashore on a field near Lingayen, so he kept on his course.

"But all of a sudden about three bushels of red-hot Jap tracers came whizzing by his cockpit. He pushed the stick forward to nose her down, and then in a climbing turn to the right pulled her back up into the sun—and then he looked back to see that two of the four Jap fighters had detached to work him over.

"They were coming hell-for-breakfast, so he pulled a cute maneuver—throttled back suddenly to let them go roaring on by him, and then opened up on their vanishing tails. His first burst put them both on fire. Those good old .50-calibers—the P-40 had six of them and when they speak, they do all the talking.

"Remember all this time Buzz hadn't dumped his bombs. They might easily have cost him his life, but his job was to get to Lingayen Field, where he had a rendezvous with Lieutenant Russell Church.

"As he approached Lingayen, first he saw Russ, who fell in on his wing, and then he saw his target—all those Jap planes on the ground lined up just like it was for an ordinary peacetime Saturday-morning inspection. I want you to get this—to see it isn't only the American Air Force which gets caught with its pants down and its suspenders trailing.

"They started the long glide down, circling the field, and then Buzz peeled off and started in on them. Russ was to follow, but at a good distance, so he wouldn't pick up in his propellers the fragments of Jap planes tossed up by Buzz's frag bombs.

"So down they went—Buzz first, then Russ, just skimming the field. As the first target came into sight Buzz let go first one and then the other of his 30-pound fragmentation bombs, and looking back over his shoulder, he saw old Russ was just coming in behind him. Buzz went on across the field and then pulled up sharply to watch Russ' bombs go right down the line. Russ' tail was on fire from Jap ack-ack, and he knew it, but he stayed dead on his run, making direct hits on those neatly lined-up Jap planes, and then—Buzz still watching—Russ pulled up at the end of the field in a slow half-roll and—went in. Buzz says it's just possible Russ was able to bail out—he couldn't wait to be sure, for now he was getting ready for his second run, all alone. He came in on this second pass through the Jap ack-ack with his six .50-calibers pounding away at those parked planes—some were already burning from the bombs he and Russ had dropped—crossed the field once, and had banked to come in for a third pass when Jap tracers began whizzing past his cockpit from behind. He looked over his shoulder to see that the last two of those four Zeros were diving on him. Of course there was nothing he could do but push his throttle up to the fire wall—jamming on all the gas his engine would take—and try to get away.

(Air force slang meaning his plane went into the ground.)

"Inch by inch he pulled away from those Zeros—he looked back at the field once and saw about six good fires going—and Buzz said it was damned lucky he got back to the field, because he could tell the boys that a P-40 could outrun a Zero at sea level. Remember, though, he said outrun, not outmaneuver.

"In those days everybody was learning stuff that wasn't in the book, and passing it on. Everybody had to learn, which is why we don't get bitter at being mishandled at first.

"But Buzz always hated to talk about himself. 'Did you hear about the Rat?' he asked me, very excited. The Rat of course was our old friend Lieutenant Sam Marrett, who had picked up this nickname at Randolph Field because of his pointed nose and small face. 'The Rat took four winglings out on patrol, and they were laying back above a hillside on Lingayen when they spotted a Jap landing party, so they climbed to get altitude and then peeled off out of the sun onto it—the Rat leading, of course—in one long string, each picking his barge. What happened no one knew for sure. But one of the Rat's bullets must have touched off the magazine racks in the Jap barge he picked, anyway the barge blew right up in his face, and the Rat's plane disintegrated. But the other four kids continued on their runs, first dropping their frag bombs, and then strafing back and forth—they had Japs diving off those barges in every direction.'

"That day," said Frank, "my job was the tower, not going on missions myself or even listening to gossip. A little after noon I happened to be looking up at the overcast toward the roar made by one of our planes which I thought maybe would be trying to come in when suddenly I saw a parachute blossom just under the overcast—and another—and another. I counted eight, so it must be a Fortress—but no ninth. Instead, at the very end of these eight I saw a dark object go hurtling into the ground. One of our Forts, but whose? I didn't find out until evening that it was Colin Kelly. He'd been out there following his briefing that I'd heard that morning, which was to attack Jap transports and their naval escorts. He'd laid a direct hit square on the very biggest target any pilot could hope for and had been on his way home—had been about to let down through that overcast onto Clark Field—when two Jap fighters, who had been hanging on ever since he left the convoy, hit him. They put a lucky incendiary into his oxygen system, and of course it started to burn like cotton soaked in gasoline. But Colin wasn't rattled. He gave the regular orders over the interphone system for the other eight boys of his crew to climb into their chutes and abandon ship.

"Now a part of this procedure in a Fortress is that the pilot must be the last to leave. It's the same in the Navy, except that it's sometimes just a gallant gesture, particularly when the captain can't help much by staying, and if the ship does go down under him he can float away from the bridge in his life jacket, and pretty soon someone's giving him a slug of rye and a brisk rubdown in the wardroom of another ship.

"But in the Air Force it's the real McCoy. Because if a Fortress is on fire, somebody has to stay on the stick to keep her level and right side up while the other eight make their jumps. That somebody is the pilot, and that's one of the things you must be ready to do in order to wear those pretty silver wings on your chest that the better-upholstered girls stare at in the better-upholstered bars.

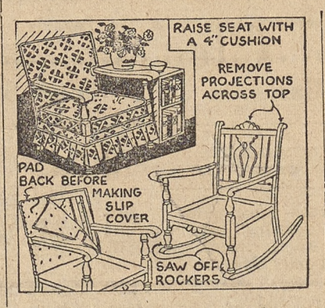

"Well, Colin stayed on the stick as his plane dropped with its oxygen system flaming, and all eight got out, and I suppose carefully counted one thousand—two thousand—three thousand like it says in the book, before they pulled their cords and their chutes blossomed.

"But by the time the last one was out, and Colin got his own chute on and opened his top escape-hatch window above that fume-filled cockpit and crawled up through it—well, he cleared the plane all right, but he was so close to the ground that he never had a chance to crack his chute.

With RUTH WYETH SPEARS

IT IS not necessary to make our economies so dull that they depress every one. Let's make them gay and attractive to give us a lift and a bit of a challenge too This old rocker is an example.

A saw and a wood chisel were used for removing projections and rockers. An old quilt was found for padding and the feathers from an old bolster were packed into a thick seat cushion to raise the seat which has been lowered by removing the rockers. This required a yard and a quarter of ticking. Four and one-half yards of inexpensive chintz in a bold, modern pattern did the rest. Total cost for an up-to-date chair less than two dollars, one that will serve well for the duration.

NOTE—This remodeled chair is from BOOK 5 which also contains directions for modernizing an old fashioned couch and making other home furnishings from things on hand. To get copy of BOOK 5 send 15 cents to cover cost of mailing direct to:

When you hear a Marine called a "Leatherneck," it has nothing to do with the epidermis of his neck. Years ago the Marine uniform was equipped with a high stiff leather collar. From that time on, "Leatherneck" has been the word for a Marine. The word for his favorite cigarette is "Camel"—the favorite cigarette also of men in the Army, Navy, and Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

With synthetic tires about to be in general use, experts emphasize again that speed is important in determining tire mileage. The legal limit of 35 m.p.h. has been found to be the best mileage conserver with synthetics, just as is was with tires of crude rubber.

Tire cords lose elasticity as they grow older, which accounts for many blowouts when a well-worn tire strikes a rough spot in the road.

Wartime regulations are saving nearly 200 million bus miles a year for the country's highway transportation system. Converted into tires, this conserved mileage means a lot to the rubber program.

A bingo party wil be given in the parish hall, Sacred Heart church, 2001 Sunset Cliffs, on Feb. 22 at 8 p.m. The public is cordially invited.

Women's Club Members Joyful In Plans To Own Club Building

Ocean Beach Women's club for the past 10 years has been anxious to have their own club building and that wish now seems sure of fulfillment with the purchase on Tuesday of the bungalow on the Ocean Beach school grounds from the Board of Education.

Quite a few years back the women began their building fund which they added to steadily. They bought a lot on Newport avenue first but the heads of the group following thought it too much in the business area, so this lot was sold and property purchased at the foot of Del Monte avenue, overlooking the ocean. Later this site was thought unsuitable and so it too was sold.

Recently the city school board decided the frame building on the school grounds was no longer needed and decided to auction it off. They set a minimum price of $350 on the structure which is Redwood and was first used as a Congregational church here. It has two large rooms, 30x40 and 30x23 feet. After the church built a larger place it was moved to the school grounds and used as a class room, a cafeteria and a meeting place for P-T.A. mothers at various times.

When it was learned the bungalow was to be sold, Miss Jean Rittenhouse, pioneer real estate woman and member of the club, said she would give the group a lot 75x100 at Muir and Abbott streets, if they bought the building. This offer inspired the present club officials to offer a sealed bid for the structure and followed it up at the auction where it was found several bidders were on hand. Most bidders stopped at about $600, but Mrs. Fred P. Hiltz, acting for the club, continued until $1350 was reached, when Mrs. Isabel C. Bedford, the next highest bidder stopped.

The offer of the lot by Miss Rittenhouse was contingent upon the club acquiring the building and they now will have an opportunity to carry out their building program which is very much needed in Ocean Beach.
